S. A. Wood, the assistant cashier of the Volusia County Bank at DeLand, came over Sunday to take charge of the Merchants Bank while Teller Niver went to DeLand to appear as a witness before the Criminal Court. Mr. Niver, who has not been feeling well for some time, has been ill all week and was unable to attend court.

A full line of Masury's Paints at Mason & Wall Co's.

L. M. Waite arrived Monday evening from Narragansett, Pier, R. I., accompanied by his friend, E. E. Pierce. Mr. Waite favored the Gazette-News with a very pleasant call. He will again manage the Grand Atlantic this winter, and expects to be here the latter part of next month to get it in readiness for opening. Mr. Waite and Mr. Pierce left yesterday for Narragansett Pier, R. I.

We are now prepared to furnish anything you may need to put your house in order for the tourists. We can supply the large hotels as well as the small boarding houses with Bed Linens, Table Linens, Towels, Toweling Spreads, etc. Call and see for yourself that our prices are as low as anywhere else, and the quality just as good, and better. J. A. Hendricks.

Daytona Wednesday night and left Thursday morning for Jacksonville. Mr. Detweiler has just returned from Miami, where he was looking after fish interests and making arrangements for getting two manatees for the St. Louis Exposition. He reports that he has just received a new three-horse power Stirling engine for his yacht, Luelier.

McClellan & Edwards have a big stock of pine and oak wood.

S. H. Moseley has had a new sidewalk laid in front of the Stanley House.

Richard King and bride, of Dania, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ben Der Thursday.

E. W. Greene returned Thursday from a four months' visit with friends in various parts of the North.

Walter Null has severed his connection with J. H. Niver & Son and will engage in tomato culture at Fort Lauderdale.

George M. Wright is expected to arrive Monday from Philadelphia. He will spend the winter at the Stanley House.

The residents of Cottage avenue have had a number of incandescent lights placed along the avenue to guide travelers on their way.

The real estate agents report that an unusually large number of inquiries are being received from persons who desire to rent cottages for the coming winter.

James Rix has purchased of Wm. Wicking the property occupied by Ben Der's barber shop and the Chinese laundry. The sale was made through Col. W. M. Shaffner.

Dr. P. R. Bennett was among the arrivals Thursday. He was accompanied by Miss Fay Paulson. The Doctor informs the Gazette-News that Mrs. Bennett and Miss Morris will arrive about the first of December.

Henry Plummer, representing the New York commission firm of E. R. Brackett & Co., was in Daytona this week interviewing the orange growers with a view to learning what the crop will be this season. He reports that it will greatly exceed any year since the freeze of '95.

Ladies' Rubbers just received at J. A. Hendricks.

J. D. Shafer arrived from New York last Saturday for the winter. This will make his fifth winter spent in Daytona. Mr. Shafer is a true follower of Sir Isaac Walton, and thinks that there is no place like Daytona for fishing. He has had his record for half-day fishing. Thursday forenoon he caught twenty-four fish, as follows: Eight trout, five bass, five red snapper, four blue fish and two white fish.

Gentlemen, J. A. Hendricks can save you money on Hats. Just try him.

Samuel A. Schweisport, of Atlantic City, New Jersey, was in Daytona last week, and has bought the Peters boat, house of E. T. Conrad. He is now in Jacksonville, where he is having his 28-foot launch overhauled and put in shape for the winter. This is Mr. Schweisport's first visit to Daytona, but he is so well pleased that he has decided to make this city his future winter home. He will make his headquarters at the Stanley House.

Ladies, have you seen that beautiful line of Trimmed and Street Hats which have just arrived at J. A. Hendricks? You should see them before purchasing elsewhere.

Rev. J. B. Hawk, formerly pastor of the First M. E. Church of this city, was a passenger on the southbound train Thursday en route to his home at Melbourne from St. Augustine, where his son, Fritz, has been undergoing treatment at the hospital. We are pleased to state that the little fellow is much improved. Mr. Hawk stepped off the train long enough to shake hands with a number of his numerous Daytona friends who happened to be at the railway station.

CRIMINAL COURT MATTERS.

The following cases of interest to Daytonians were disposed of by the Criminal Court this week:

Geo. H. Matthews was fined $125 and costs amounting to a total of $295 for illegally selling liquor.

Harrison Tompson, a Waycross negro, also $125 and costs for selling "red eye."

Lilla Phillips, who entered the home of E. T. Conrad, will spend a year in the pen for the offense.

The bunch of thirteen negroes sent over for playing "skin" were fined $5 and costs each, which means that each will pay $21.30 or thirty days in the chain gang.

L. E. Howard pleaded guilty to entering a dwelling with intent to commit a misdemeanor, and was given six months or a fine of $100.

V. E. Kitting pleaded guilty to the illegal sale of liquor and was given the usual dose—$125 and costs.

HOWARD WANTED LIBERTY.

L. E. Howard, who was sent over to DeLand a couple of weeks ago to await the action of the Criminal Court on a charge of entering a house to commit a misdemeanor, tried to escape from the county jail one night last week.

He was confined in a cell with H. Iverson, another white man who is under sentence and awaiting the decision of an appeal to the Supreme Court. Some time during the night Deputy Sheriff Edwards heard a suspicious noise, and on investigation found that the two prisoners had nearly effected their escape by sawing through the window bars. They had forced the lock on the steel grating in front of the window, and the iron bars on the outside of this grating proved an easy mark for them. They had one bar cut through, and were well started on the other, which, when cut, would have permitted their escape. The only tool found in the cell was a piece of a blade of a pocket knife, perhaps two inches long, and a wire staple. The men claimed they had used this staple in hacking the edge of the knife blade, making a saw of it. The authorities, however, think the work could not have been done with these tools, and are of the opinion that a saw of some kind was used, which was made away with when they were discovered at their work.

SEABREEZE SIFTINGS

Mrs. K. Hancy's house is looking as good as new from the effects of a new coat of paint.

C. G. Smith, property owner on Valley street, will sail for Seabreeze November 1. He and his family spent the summer at Franconia, N. H.

The friends of George Gardiner are glad to see him out again. He has had quite a wrestle with "the negatives" for the past ten days or so.

P. R. Ridgeway, our mail carrier, recently bought a lot from C. G. Smith just north of his cottage on Valley street, and is having a neat, eight-room cottage erected on it. Mr. Windham has the contract.

A few days since, your correspondent was excited by Mrs. A. W. Stewart to visit her orange grove. The yield will be something wonderful in proportion to the size of the grove, which is not large. On one medium-sized grapefruit tree there are 300 fruit, and as far as we could see, all in a perfect condition. The fruit are so large and heavy that it necessitates more than one prop to each limb. At a selling price of 25 cents per grapefruit this looks like a gold mine as far as it goes—and we might add that it goes farther than some gold mines.

Sidney Haigh suffered quite a financial loss recently in the death by lightning of one of his beautiful match horses. He bought them of Mrs. Helen Williams Post some two years ago, and in order to favor them as far as possible, shipped them to good pasturage near Tallahassee, and it was there, during a heavy electrical storm, that beautiful Helen Williams lost her life. Mrs. Post purchased Helen and Ida from a Kentucky farm ten years ago for property valued at $3,000, and Helen had a pedigree as long as Victoria's; she was spirited and fiery, as blooded folks are apt to be, but was docile and gentle under right management. Noblesse oblige! Hence he to her ashes. Rare products should grow from a soil enriched by her bones.

Last Sunday afternoon we visited the little band of Sunday School workers that congregates each Sunday afternoon at the Wilman's Opera House. The school was organized during the summer months by Rev. C. H. VanSickle, and has made a creditable growth from the beginning. In the absence of Mr. Moore, superintendent, we found Mr. Rich, assistant superintendent, in charge. The teachers are Miss Beckman, Mrs. Williams and Miss Middleton. Everything appeared to be moving on wheels, and the children an earnest, orderly little band, taking much interest in the exercises. The enrollment has grown from a mere nucleus to twenty-seven in number, and double that in determination to make a success of the school. The teachers give all credit to the children for the way they have worked up the attendance. They look forward to an enlarged field of action as the vacant cottages are filled.

If we dared we would like to tell a real live joke on a certain young man in this community. Ordinarily it would be too good to keep—only that we are sworn not to "give it away." To think that such a golden would actually lose one of his "dude slippers," and in the most comical and unexpected way, too. But we promised not to tell—and have to walk back from the bench "hip-it-a-bop, one shoe off and one shoe on" style, and with those fun-loving girls by his side. We would like to get absolved from our promise—and actually have to go in and borrow one of "mother's" overshoes to get home, and the moon shining as bright as day, and ever so many strangers passing them on the sidewalk. Mrs. McConnell's big dog was one of the leading characters in the play—and it may be you can get Mrs. Lyle to tell you something about it, or the gentleman at the Clarendon Inn, who had the kindness to fish the shoe out of the surf and return it to the owner. But really, really, we crossed our heart and promised not even to give a hint of it for he is one of our prominent society gentlemen, and he might be sensitive on the subject. However, you ask him how he likes wading in the surf.

Horace Stewart lost his valuable family horse a few days ago.

Meadames Plato and Baker, of Satsuma Heights, are visiting Mrs. Chat Odum this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara, after a summer sojourn at Goodall, left this week for their home at Satsuma Heights.

Editor Willis has been rustling in the interest of "Seabreeze" for the past week. He made short trips to DeLand, Daytona and Ormond.

John Williams, our assistant post master, has been laid up for repairs for the past two days. We miss his genial face at the window.

A. L. Winn, of Richmond, Va., made a flying visit to Seabreeze last Sunday. He registered at the Clarendon Inn while looking after his interests.

Jack Baggett is a good fisherman. When seen these days, he is either industriously plying his decoy or waggling home a large string of fish.

The "Seabreeze" mechanical department has been reinforced by the arrival of Mr. Sparkman, of DeLand. He has taken rooms at the Lamblin cottage.

Harry Middleton has earned his forty cents a day gathering and selling palmetto berries, and yet has lost no time from school. "Where there's a will there's a way."

Mrs. J. C. Ligeon, who has been visiting with her father and sister for the past six weeks, left for Palatka Wednesday evening of last week. She stops there en route, but will join her husband at Waycross, Ga., shortly.

The peninsula people generally are very much interested in the services conducted by the Rev. Milford H. Lyon at Daytona. Walking parties are formed and the trip there and back detract nothing from the enjoyment of the occasion.

Gardner Bros. have bought out the Brown Bros' stock of groceries. Mr. Brown has contended bravely against adverse circumstances since the loss of his stock by fire last winter. He has the good will and good wishes of the community.

C. W. Clinton, Dutcher, New York City, who has leased the Brokers Hotel for the season, is manager and proprietor of the Bear and Fox Inn in the Catskill Mountains. He has a well-established reputation as a successful hotel man. The painters have the hotel in hand, and it will soon be as good as new.

Mrs. C. E. Ladd ran down here for a week to look up some of her business interests. When she told Mr. Ladd good bye, and explained to him that she was coming to Seabreeze, he aroused to say, "Tell them I love them all." This is indeed a touching message from one so universally respected and loved as he is in this community. After barely taking time to adjust her affairs Mrs. Ladd hastened back to him.

Mr. Keating was quite a loser by the action of the high tides the past ten days. Some of the timber floating down from the old wreckage two miles above town must have knocked out one of the piers and the action of the water floated off two sections of the recent addition. Mr. Keating says that a channel 18 feet deep more or less, is being formed at the former terminus of the pier. It seems that some of the iron work had not yet been put in, making the extension more liable to damage than otherwise.

Mrs. A. B. Kimball and E. H. Farnum, of Lynn, Mass., who have been at the Clarendon for the past week, left on the north bound train last Wednesday. Mrs. Kimball has leased the Colonades for three years. She is proprietor of the Prescott Inn at King's Beach, and the Aborn Hotel at Magnolia, Mass., and E. H. Farnum is the business manager of the two named as he will also be of the Colonades. They returned about December 1, but do not expect to open the hotel until January 1.

It seems that we really have some in Daytona who are inclined to lawlessness. During the meeting Thursday night several missiles of some kind were thrown upon the roof of the Armory, and some other rudenesses which are not becoming to boys or young men with any pretensions to honor or manliness. This was due, no doubt, to the absence of the marshal, who was at DeLand attending court.

SCHMIDT'S VILLA Overlooking the Halifax River.

The hotel commands a most attractive view in every direction and no finer location can be found in the vicinity. It is only one mile from the ocean and is convenient to the depot, postoffice, churches and public schools. More sunny rooms than any other hotel in town. Bath room and lavatories.
